

EPSRC

Centre for Innovative Manufacturing in Continuous Manufacturing and Crystallisation

EPSRC

Engineering and Physical Sciences
Research Council

Craig Johnston

Craig Johnston

Strathclyde Institute of Pharmacy and Biomedical Sciences University of Strathclyde
161 Cathedral Street
Glasgow G4 0RE
craig.johnston.101@strath.ac.uk

Craig Johnston is CMAC Operations director and key role is engaging industry base from multi nationals (GSK,AZ, Novartis) to SMEs. He has an MBA and is Fellow of the Institute of Chemical Engineers. His previous industrial career spanned 22 years, working for ICI, Zeneca, Avecia and Fujifilm. Roles included technical, production, start-up management and technology leadership. Responsibilities included new product introduction, process improvement, project definition, capital expenditure and novel process technology evaluation. He was a board director with Britest Ltd (2006-2011) an industry / academic consortium focussed on adding value through process understanding and design. He is currently chair of Chemical Sciences Scotland Innovation Group.

Research Interests

Technology Transfer, Process Development, Manufacturing, Process Intensification, Leadership, Multi-disciplinary teams